DOMAINE LAROCHE
CRITICAL ACCLAIM FOR THE 2012 VINTAGE

THE WASHINGTON PANEL

“DATING BACK TO 1850 AND SINCE 2009 an integral part of the AdVini group, Domaine Laroche is one of the most traditional, ‘purist’ wine houses in Chablis, virtually synonymous with this region, but also one of the most progressive. In the cellar, under Technical Director Grégory Viennois, wines from each of the domaine’s individual plots—including nearly a dozen premier crus and three grand crus—are assigned to an individual ‘tâcheron,’ who sees the wine through to completion and ensures that it is a true expression of its terroir. I recently tasted these highly impressive wines from the 2012 vintage. Kudos to Laroche for bottling under screwcap, which Michel Laroche was the first in France to initiate, in 2001.”
